Dear Cllr Strangeways,

In no way has the Labour Group acted as 'Tory lackies' which is why we actually challenge the Tory Group's decision making, something you consistently fail to do in an appropriate way.

Attacking officers of the Council is clearly unacceptable and can I suggest you might represent your ward better if you attempted to work with them, rather than making inappropriate comments about them, even if you find your 'photoons' entertaining trust me no one else does and officers should not have to endure abuse. That said, you seem to enjoy abusing others, even though you then end up apologising for it.

Here's a tip for you though Cllr Strangeways, to my mind satire should at least have a degree of humour to it, and yours sadly fails on that simple point. Therefore, can suggest your energies could be spent on a more worthwhile venture such as thinking before emailing pointless comments or posting irrelevant twaddle on your website.

Have a great weekend love.

Kindest regards,

Iain
